Rainy Weekend Predicted, But No Good Snow

First Days Of Winter In State To See Above Normal Temperatures

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
No precipitation indicated for Christmas Day," says the Ohio weatherman.

In other words, kiddies, no white Christmas.

Between today and Christmas Day, Ohioans may get a glimpse of a snow flake or two, but that is about all.

The weatherman, taking a look into the future, sees showers coming Saturday and Sunday with only a chance of snow flurries — and those coming in the extreme southeastern part of the state.

Here is the complete weather forecast for Ohio during the next five days:

"Temperatures will average 4 to 6 degrees above normal; normal high 36 north to 40 south; normal low 21-23. Mild Saturday and Sunday, colder Monday, little change with moderate temperatures Tuesday and Wednesday. Precipitation will average about one inch occurring as intermittent rain Saturday and Sunday and possible snow flurries extreme southeast Monday. No precipitation indicated for Christmas Day."

'Jim Crow' Dies In 'Bama Bus Dispute

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Racial segregation ended on city buses in Montgomery today, bringing to a dramatic close a pattern in public transportation dating back for many years.

There were no reports of violence as the integration began but four carloads of white men and others in a pickup truck kept close watch.

One white man shouted to photographers: "Go ahead and get that black — — — picture," referring to a Negro aboard a bus. None of the Negroes answered the man.

Most of the early riders were Negroes, some of whom had boycotted the segregated buses for more than a year until today.

Some of the Negroes took seats toward the front, previously reserved for white passengers under the now outlawed separate seating pattern. Others went to the rear.

More Bad Luck Strikes Girl, 5

CLOVIS, N. M. — Nanette Baldridge, 5, who lost both arms after an accident last year, was in critical condition today for the second time in her short life.

Nanette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Baldridge, who live on a farm near Portales, was wounded in the head Thursday when a .22 rifle discharged accidentally.

She was visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Baldridge, on their farm. The grandfather placed her in his pickup truck and was about to drive off when the rifle, on a rack behind the seat, discharged. The bullet ricocheted, striking Nanette.

Red Cross Aims At $657 For Hungarian Aid

Pickaway County's chapter of the American Red Cross sounded a special appeal today for the urgent cause of Hungarian Relief.

Organizations in nearly all levels of American life have launched efforts to rush aid to Hungarian people fleeing the Red reign of terror in their homeland. Launching of the special drive here was announced by Hoyt Timmons, chapter chairman.

The American Red Cross has been asked to raise $5 million dollars for Hungarian Relief, and the Pickaway County chapter is aiming at a goal of $657. This, Timmons explained, would have to be above the chapter's regular funds for the year because of the special nature of the appeal.

He asked that all contributions be mailed to the American Red Cross, 114 N. Court St., Circleville, O.

U.N. Assembly Seeks Recess For Holidays

UNITED NATIONS — The U. N. General Assembly worked doggedly today to clean up business at hand so it could close shop for the Christmas holidays.

The 80-nation body pressed ahead with its current Middle East debate, interrupted Thursday night by the visit of India's Prime Minister Nehru.

The Assembly began two months late because of the U. S. election and has been delayed repeatedly by emergency sessions on the Hungarian and Middle East crises.

France brought the Middle East question before the Assembly again Thursday night by renewing charges that Egypt is mistreating French nationals. French Delegate V. G. d'Estaing spoke out despite a report from a British spokesman that both Britain and France had received assurances regarding the treatment of their nationals in Egypt and that the situation appeared easier.

D'Estaing brought up evidence which he contended knocked down Egypt's denials that French citizens were being mistreated.

The Assembly began two months late because of the U. S. election and has been delayed repeatedly by emergency sessions on the Hungarian and Middle East crises.

Postoffice Studies Sidewalk Hazards

WASHINGTON — The Postoffice Department, which has been worrying over how to keep dogs from biting mailmen, shifted attention today to the hazards letter carriers face on icy sidewalks.

Maurice H. Stans, acting postmaster general, said a large percentage of accidents suffered by postmen occurs on icy walks, steps or stairways, and he added:

"Ice or snow-covered walks and steps should be cleaned as promptly as possible or, if that is not feasible in time for the mailman's visit, abrasive materials such as sand and ashes should be spread over slippery walkways and steps to help prevent slips and falls."

Oh, Mr. Postman!

ONEONTA, N. Y. — A Christmas card received by Mr. and Mrs. James D. Van Thursday bore this notice: "Three cents due." It was from Postmaster and Mrs. Samuel J. Bertuzzi.

Portsmouth Labor Talks About Boycott

Phone Company Labeled Target; 'Economic' Sanctions' Also Eyed

PORTSMOUTH — Telephones here have been back in operation less than a week, but there's talk of removing some of them in a boycott of the company.

It comes as part of one of three measures being considered by organized labor to aid the Communications Workers of America if that union's strike against Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. lasts much longer.

Besides removal of telephones, members of unions other than the CWA have suggested an extended labor holiday in Portsmouth and possible banning of purchases at Portsmouth business places. This would be another form of protest-economic sanctions.

Also under study by a three-man committee is a measure to investigate a proposal that Peoples Development Corp. purchase Ohio Consolidated, and study of the possibility of Portsmouth and suburban New Boston acquiring the company.

THE COMMITTEE considering these recommendations is made up of Emerson T. Pence, secretary-treasurer of the Portsmouth CIO Council; Daniel Buckley, former president of the AFL-Central Labor Council; and C. E. Vanderpool, president of the AFL Building Trades Council.

While labor pondered possible courses of action, the city of Portsmouth went to court to oppose a citizen's lawsuit that would force police to remove barricades from around Ohio Consolidated's exchange here.

The city filed a memorandum with Common Pleas Judge Vernon Smith opposing H. T. Herman's suit.

Herman, an attorney who owns property within the eight-square-block area sealed off by police, claims the barricade is an infringement upon his constitutional right to peacefully assemble. Officials say residents of the area and those with business there are permitted to enter.

Portsmouth law enforcement officials ordered the barricade to prevent spectators from congregating near the telephone exchange.

Rock-throwing Oct. 15, when the exchange was being manned by supervisory personnel, resulted in the company's closing the exchange until last Sunday.

Principal issues in the strike, which started July 15, have been maintenance of a union shop clause in the contract, classification of supervisory personnel, and arbitration of grievances.

Union and company representatives are scheduled to meet again Dec. 27 in Columbus to resume contract talks.

Judge Denies Stiff Ban On Pickets

PORTSMOUTH — The application of Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. for a strengthened injunction to bar all picketing at its strikebound exchange here was thrown out in Common Pleas Court here today by Judge John P. Case of Fayette County.

Judge Case ruled company attorneys had not supported their application by a memorandum or affidavit as required by law or the rules of the court. He gave the attorneys leave to resubmit the motion later, but advised them to make it "clear and specific."

Under an existing court order, the Communications Workers of America union is limited to three pickets at each of the two entrances to the exchange.

Boy Given Peek At Santa Claus

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. — David Stephens, 6, has been wearing bandages on his eyes for six weeks but the doctors granted a Christmas wish—he got a quick peek at Santa Claus.

The doctors permitted removal of the bandages the other day when Santa Claus came to visit, bringing a guitar for David. Next day the boy underwent a second operation for correction of detached retinas.

The doctors said it is possible, if all goes well, that the bandages can be removed by Christmas.

Wreathed With Garlands Of Love

America's Yule Tree Is Matchless

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer
It is a tree of matchless splendor, wreathed in garlands of love and devotion.

Bright Christmas colors gleam in the branches, symbols of warmth and compassion, courage and hope. That silver bell is a child's laugh, the holly a kindly act. The shimmering ornaments were put there by happiness, and the candles speak of faith.

Where is this tree?
It is everywhere in America.
Who brings these precious gifts?
Uncounted numbers of people, known and unknown, of many faiths and races, from every station in life.

One was a man in Philadelphia, a delicatessen owner. He bought a big tree, set it up outdoors, decorated and lighted it, and put a sign on it:

"This tree is for all people who are homeless or who have no Christmas tree of their own."

And one was a judge in Utica, N. Y., who was about to jail a chronic alcoholic when the prisoner showed him a letter from his daughter. It said she thought the man was dead.

The judge, withholding sentence, gave him some money and said:

"Merry Christmas and God bless you; I hope you get to her."

Surely a bright strand was placed on the tree this week by Dr. Laurence Jones, 72-year-old Negro educator. He is president of the Piney Woods School in Mississippi where 500 underprivileged youngsters work their way from grammar school to college.

He came to Camp Klmer, N.J., bringing Christmas trees and 10 bushels of pecans grown by his students, to the Hungarian child refugees there.

"We have very little at Piney Woods to share with you," he said, "but my students are deeply grateful to America. We know it will be equally good to you."

And surely a television program in the Veterans Administration hospital in San Fernando, Calif., will throw a bright gleam on the tree.

There, on Christmas Day, veterans suffering from tuberculosis will talk to their families over a closed-circuit TV hookup. It has been years since some of the men saw their children. Those under 15 are not admitted to the tuberculosis wards.

A group of volunteers in California raised the money and arranged for the program.

Those are some of the merry little Santa Clauses, baubles, and strings of popcorn that decorate America's Christmas tree this year.

SAFE IN AUSTRIA, these 16-year-old Hungarian refugees from the Soviet frontier show their most prized possession. It is a watch owned by Col. Pal Matery, head of Hungary's freedom fighters. The boys were with the Colonel in the Kilian barracks when it was surrounded by Red tanks. He told them to leave by the last escape route and gave them the watch as a memento.

Nehru Lashes Out Against World's Military Alliances

NEW YORK — India's Prime Minister Nehru ends his six-day American visit today as he begins to still convinced that collective security pacts will not preserve world peace.

Indiana Klan Chieftain Freed

INDIANAPOLIS — Indiana Gov. George N. Craig today freed D. C. Stephenson, former Grand Dragon of the Ku Klux Klan, from his life sentence for murder in Indiana State Prison with the stipulation that Stephenson leave Indiana and never return.

Stephenson, who ruled Indiana Republican politics as Klan leader in the early 1920s and boasted "I am the law" in Indiana, was sentenced to life imprisonment in 1925 in the death of Madge Oberholzer, a Statehouse secretary.

Stephenson, now 63, came to Indiana from Texas in the early dominant political influence in the state, controlling the Republican Party in those years. He has charged repeatedly that his imprisonment was due to politics.

Cuyahoga Dem Chief Steps Down

CLEVELAND — Declaring that he wants to devote all his time to his law practice and business, Ray T. Miller Thursday night stepped down as chairman of the Cuyahoga County Democratic organization, a post he had held for nearly 20 years.

The county executive committee accepted Miller's resignation and followed his recommendation that three men be named co-chairmen to serve until the next Democratic county convention in May, 1958.

Named co-chairmen were three longtime friends of Miller, Dan W. Duffy, member of the board of elections; Ben C. Green, chairman of the board; and Tom L. Terrell, deputy clerk of the board.

Nixon Continues Inspection Of Refugee Setup In Austria

VIENNA — Vice President Nixon met with Chancellor Julius Raab and most of the Austrian cabinet for an hour and a half today, discussing the problem created by 140,000 Hungarian refugees.

Nixon is seeking first-hand information to guide President Eisenhower and the U. S. Congress in dealing with the aftermath of the Hungarian revolution.

Although Nixon and members of his party declined to discuss the meeting with the Austrian leaders, authoritative sources disclosed that the Austrian federal government will have spent more than $7 million caring for refugees by Jan. 1. This does not include spending by provincial and local governments or private donations.

The Austrians hope the United States will help them pay the bill, as well as take more of the refugees off their hands.

AS NIXON started the second day of his study, newly arrived refugees reported that they had experienced "great difficulties" in reaching the border area.

Only 688 Hungarians crossed into Austria during the night, compared with 1,000 or more nightly earlier this week. The refugees said that strict checks were being made on Hungarian trains and that most of those who sought to quit the country had to hitchhike or walk to the border.

Nixon hurried from his meeting with government officials to a makeshift home for 424 refugees in a four-story Vienna schoolhouse.

After shaking hands and chatting with many of the refugees, he (1) visited Interior Minister Oskar Helmer, recuperating from a minor operation in a hospital; (2) watched U. S. immigration officers interview a Hungarian family preparing to go to the United States; (3) visited the office of the International Committee for European Migration where refugees are processed and assigned to planes and trains for transportation to the United States and other countries.

WASHINGTON — Military officials continue to cloak their missile test operations in official secrecy although the test center on Florida's populous east coast is open to public view from the sea.

Secrecy obscures even nonsecret work at Patrick Air Force Base, site of the armed forces missile test center.

It is known that three months ago technicians fired a test type of the projected Jupiter intermediate range ballistic missile. This Army missile appears to have shot up more than 600 miles and to have flown 3,000 miles into the South Atlantic.

The Pentagon still declines to acknowledge such a test was conducted.

The Defense Department refused to permit advance notice of the recent test firing of a standard Viking rocket similar to the first-stage engine planned for launching the projected earth satellites. Newsmen, in requesting permission to go to the base for such a test firing, cited an earlier government statement that the satellite project, a purely scientific effort, would not be encumbered by military security. The explanation for the refusal was that other military equipment was on the base.

The missile test center is heavily protected on land by fences and armed guards. But most of its area is in plain sight from a beach across a narrow strip of water, and civilian-operated boats are free to sail close to shore.

Ohio Mom Visits Ill GI In Japan

MISAWA AIR BASE, Japan — An Ohio mother arrived here today in time to spend Christmas with her ailing airman son.

The U. S. Air Force announced that Mrs. Willie J. Clark of Columbus was flown to this base in northern Japan. It said the son, Airman 1c Arthur C. Clark Jr., was considered too ill with a pulmonary infection to be flown to the United States.

The announcement said Mrs. Clark will remain at the base hospital "as long as the doctors consider her presence necessary."

Christmas Mail Crushes Truck

HAMILTON — Ernest Myers, 31, of Muncie, Ind., was crushed and killed instantly when his truck, filled with 10 tons of Christmas mail overturned.

The Butler County sheriff's office said the accident occurred on U. S. 27 just south of McGonigle. Myers suffered a crushed skull, the coroner said. He was a driver for the CMQ Trucking Co., which had contract for the hauling of mail.

COLUMBUS — Ohio Edison Co. has asked the state utilities commission for authority to issue and sell 580,613 shares of common stock. The money would be used to finance 1957 construction.

Court Decision Again Delayed On Lifting Ban

County Department Heads On Stand In Latest Hearing

A continued hearing on a motion to dismiss a temporary restraining order against work on the controversial courthouse parking lot was held in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court this morning.

Today's court action is a continuation of a hearing held a week ago Thursday. At that time counsel for both sides agreed to another hearing in order that both the plaintiffs and the defendants might submit further evidence.

At today's hearing, it was agreed again to continue discussions on the current action.

Meanwhile, the injunction was allowed to stand and still is in effect.

The motion to dissolve the restraining order was filed by Pickaway County Prosecutor William Ammer, representing the county commissioners. The injunction was granted at the request of two taxpayers, William Hickey and Arthur Wilkin.

Judge Earl D. Parker of Pike County presided at last week's court session and again today.

THE PROPOSED parking lot has been the center of a vigorous feud since shortly after last month's election.

County department heads called to the witness stand today included: county commissioners, William Goode, Lyman Penn and Harley Mace; county auditor Verne M. O'Hara; and county engineer Henry McCready.

Attorney Kenneth Robbins, representing the defendants, Wilkin and Hickey, contended that the commissioners did not act in good faith in ordering the parking lot to be constructed.

Ammer, on the other hand, declared the board of commissioners were within their rights in having the lot laid out. He also contended that the commissioners used proper procedure in letting contracts for the proposed work.

Teacher Turns Son Over To Police

CINCINNATI — James Messer, 50, a Heidrick, Ky., high school instructor, proved that he practices what he teaches on the subject of honesty.

Fighting tears, he turned his 18-year-old son over to Norwood police near here when he learned the boy had stolen a car.

His son, James Jr., said he took the car Nov. 29 in Norwood and gave it to Frank Carnes and Charles G. Baker, 18-year-old Heidrick, Ky., youths. They were arrested in Kentucky in the stolen car.

"CHRISTMAS COD"

This year I'm mailing out Christmas Cards that I bought from my co-worker, Dr. Schwine. He printed them himself and the beautiful verses on them were written by Mrs. Schwine. Here's a sample: "I SEND YOU GREETINGS AND CHRISTMAS CHEER, YOU DESERVE A GIFT BUT I CAN'T WRAP BEER." And "IF YOU'RE A FAN OF ROCK 'N' ROLL, MAY YOUR CHRISTMAS STOCKING BE FILLED WITH COAL." Here's another: "I HOPE YOU ENJOY THIS CARD I SENT YA, NOW HOW ABOUT THAT DOUGH I LENT YA." And this one I especially like because it's so topical: "IN THIS ATOMIC SEASON I GO ALL OUT, TO WISH YOU A NEW YEAR WITHOUT A FALL-OUT." I'm not certain but I'd say that Mrs. Schwine's poetic style resembles either Keats or Tennyson. Or Burma Shave.

bless you; I hope you get to her."

Surely a bright strand was placed on the tree this week by Dr. Laurence Jones, 72-year-old Negro educator. He is president of the Piney Woods School in Mississippi where 500 underprivileged youngsters work their way from grammar school to college.

He came to Camp Klmer, N.J., bringing Christmas trees and 10 bushels of pecans grown by his students, to the Hungarian child refugees there.

"We have very little at Piney Woods to share with you," he said, "but my students are deeply grateful to America. We know it will be equally good to you."

And surely a television program in the Veterans Administration hospital in San Fernando, Calif., will throw a bright gleam on the tree.

There, on Christmas Day, veterans suffering from tuberculosis will talk to their families over a closed-circuit TV hookup. It has been years since some of the men saw their children. Those under 15 are not admitted to the tuberculosis wards.

A group of volunteers in California raised the money and arranged for the program.

Those are some of the merry little Santa Clauses, baubles, and strings of popcorn that decorate America's Christmas tree this year.

SAFE IN AUSTRIA, these 16-year-old Hungarian refugees from the Soviet terror show their most prized possession. It is a watch owned by Col. Pal Maleter, head of Hungary's freedom fighters. The boys were with the Colonel in the Kilian barracks when it was surrounded by Red tanks. He told them to leave by the last escape route and gave them the watch as a memento.

Nehru Lashes Out Against World's Military Alliances

NEW YORK (AP) — India's Prime Minister Nehru ends his six-day American visit today as he begins to still convinced that collective security pacts will not preserve world peace.

Tonight a Royal Canadian Air Force plane will fly Nehru to Ottawa for weekend conferences with Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent.

Nehru made the most of his brief New York visit Thursday with a triple-barreled round of speeches. All of them were woven around the theme that a positive but peaceful approach could solve the problems of Hungary and the Middle East hostilities "without too great difficulties."

In a speech at an informal gathering of United Nations General Assembly delegates and in a speech before the American Assn. for the United Nations, Nehru lashed out at the concept of military pacts and alliances.

IT WAS AN indication that any effort President Eisenhower or Secretary of State Dulles may have made to convince Nehru of the need for such pacts had failed.

Nehru told a distinguished audience at the Carnegie Endowment Center, near the U. N., that the prestige of the United States had shot up all over the world because of "certain attitudes" it had taken in regard to the military intervention of Britain and France in Egypt.

"It shows that when a nation acts according to principle and perhaps not caring for the consequences there, it gains tremendous strength," he said.

Stephenson, who ruled Indiana Republican politics as Klan leader in the early 1920s and boasted "I am the law" in Indiana, was sentenced to life imprisonment in 1925 in the death of Madge Oberholzer, a Statehouse secretary.

Stephenson, now 63, came to Indiana from Texas in the early dominant political influence in the state, controlling the Republican Party in those years. He has charged repeatedly that his imprisonment was due to politics.

Track Bed Slips, Train Is Upset

BELLEVILLE, Ill. (AP) — An Illinois Central passenger train plunged 20 feet down a muddy embankment early today when its rain-weakened roadbed gave way. Two passengers were injured fatally and 18 others were hospitalized.

Dead are Mrs. Orson Covell, North Platte, Neb., and Henry Hudson, 67, a farmer from Groverdale, Miss.

The train was three miles from the Belleville station and was crossing a high fill when the roadbed gave way. Authorities said the derailment resulted from a shifting roadbed caused by recent rains.

Cuyahoga Dem Chief Steps Down

CLEVELAND (AP) — Declaring that he wants to devote all his time to his law practice and business, Ray T. Miller Thursday night stepped down as chairman of the Cuyahoga County Democratic organization, a post he had held for nearly 20 years.

The county executive committee accepted Miller's resignation and followed his recommendation that three men be named co-chairmen to serve until the next Democratic county convention in May, 1958.

Named co-chairmen were three longtime friends of Miller, Dan W. Duffy, member of the board of elections; Ben C. Green, chairman of the board; and Tom L. Terrell, deputy clerk of the board.

Nixon Continues Inspection Of Refugee Setup In Austria

VIENNA (AP) — Vice President Nixon met with Chancellor Julius Raab and most of the Austrian cabinet for an hour and a half today, discussing the problem created by 140,000 Hungarian refugees.

Nixon is seeking first-hand information to guide President Eisenhower and the U. S. Congress in dealing with the aftermath of the Hungarian revolution.

Although Nixon and members of his party declined to discuss the meeting with the Austrian leaders, authoritative sources disclosed that the Austrian federal government will have spent more than $7 million caring for refugees by Jan. 1. This does not include spending by provincial and local governments or private donations.

The Austrians hope the United States will help them pay the bill, as well as take more of the refugees off their hands.

AS NIXON started the second day of his study, newly arrived refugees reported that they had experienced "great difficulties" in reaching the border area.

Only 688 Hungarians crossed into Austria during the night, compared with 1,000 or more nightly earlier this week. The refugees said that strict checks were being made on Hungarian trains and that most of those who sought to quit the country had to hitchhike or walk to the border.

Nixon hurried from his meeting with government officials to a makeshift home for 424 refugees in a four-story Vienna schoolhouse.

After shaking hands and chatting with many of the refugees, he (1) visited Interior Minister Oskar Helmer, recuperating from a minor operation in a hospital; (2) watched U. S. immigration officers interview a Hungarian family preparing to go to the United States; (3) visited the office of the International Committee for European Migration where refugees are processed and assigned to planes and trains for transportation to the United States and other countries.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Military officials continue to cloak their missile test operations in official secrecy although the test center on Florida's populous east coast is open to public view from the sea.

Secrecy obscures even nonsecret work at Patrick Air Force Base, site of the armed forces missile test center.

It is known that three months ago technicians fired a test type of the projected Jupiter intermediate range ballistic missile. This Army missile appears to have shot up more than 600 miles and to have flown 3,000 miles into the South Atlantic.

The Pentagon still declines to acknowledge such a test was conducted.

The Defense Department refused to permit advance notice of the recent test firing of a standard Viking rocket similar to the first-stage engine planned for launching the projected earth satellites. Newsmen, in requesting permission to go to the base for such a test firing, cited an earlier government statement that the satellite project, a purely scientific effort, would not be encumbered by military security. The explanation for the refusal was that other military equipment was on the base.

The missile test center is heavily protected on land by fences and armed guards. But most of its area is in plain sight from a beach across a narrow strip of water. And civilian-operated boats are free to sail close to shore.

His brief talk was carried to the nation by radio and television and beamed around the world by the Voice of America.

About 7,500 persons, some of them notables and many of them children, were on hand as the President said that "we see the vision of a better world." In the light of Christmas, he said, the "dark curtains of the world are drawn aside."

Accurate Throwing Is Asset To Boy

CLEVELAND (AP) — They don't steal on 16-year-old Daniel Hearn, clerk at Cogan's Store and catcher on a baseball team.

A holdup man, who forced the boy to hand over $131 from the store's cash register Thursday night, didn't count on that good right arm.

As the robber fled out the door, Hearn made a perfect peg with a pop bottle, bouncing it off the man's head.

The robber slumped unconscious outside. Hearn was on him until police arrived.

Officers identified him as Kenneth McCormick, 38, no address.

COLUMBUS (AP) — Ohio Edison Co. has asked the state utilities commission for authority to issue and sell $80,613 shares of common stock. The money would be used to finance 1957 construction.

Ohio Mom Visits Ill GI In Japan

MISAWA AIR BASE, Japan (AP) — An Ohio mother arrived here today in time to spend Christmas with her ailing airman son.

The U. S. Air Force announced that Mrs. Willie J. Clark of Columbus was flown to this base in northern Japan. It said the son, Airman 1c Arthur C. Clark Jr., was considered too ill with a pulmonary infection to be flown to the United States.

The announcement said Mrs. Clark will remain at the base hospital "as long as the doctors consider her presence necessary."

Christmas Mail Crushes Truck

HAMILTON (AP) — Ernest Myers, 31, of Muncie, Ind., was crushed and killed instantly when his truck, filled with 10 tons of Christmas mail, overturned.

The Butler County sheriff's office said the accident occurred on U. S. 27 just south of McGonigle. Myers suffered a crushed skull, the coroner said. He was a driver for the CMQ Trucking Co., which had contract for the hauling of mail.

Court Decision Again Delayed On Lifting Ban

County Department Heads On Stand In Latest Hearing

A continued hearing on a motion to dismiss a temporary restraining order against work on the controversial courthouse parking lot was held in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court this morning.

Today's court action is a continuation of a hearing held a week ago Thursday. At that time counsel for both sides agreed to another hearing in order that both the plaintiffs and the defendants might submit further evidence.

At today's hearing, it was agreed again to continue discussions on the current action.

Meanwhile, the injunction was allowed to stand and still is in effect.

The motion to dissolve the restraining order was filed by Pickaway County Prosecutor William Ammer, representing the county commissioners. The injunction was granted at the request of two taxpayers, William Hickey and Arthur Wilkin.

Judge Earl D. Parker of Pike County presided at last week's court session and again today.

THE PROPOSED parking lot has been the center of a vigorous feud since shortly after last month's election.

County department heads called to the witness stand today included: county commissioners, William Goode, Lyman Penn and Harley Mace; county auditor Verne M. O'Hara; and county engineer Henry McCready.

Attorney Kenneth Robbins, representing the defendants, Wilkin and Hickey, contended that the commissioners did not act in good faith in ordering the parking lot to be constructed.

Ammer, on the other hand, declared the board of commissioners were within their rights in having the lot laid out. He also contended that the commissioners used proper procedure in letting contracts for the proposed work.

Teacher Turns Son Over To Police

CINCINNATI (AP) — James Messer, 50, a Heidrick, Ky., high school instructor, proved that he practices what he teaches on the subject of honesty.

Fighting tears, he turned his 18-year-old son over to Norwood police near here when he learned the boy had stolen a car.

His son, James Jr., said he took the car Nov. 29 in Norwood and gave it to Frank Carnes and Charles G. Baker, 18-year-old Heidrick, Ky., youths. They were arrested in Kentucky in the stolen car.

ONCE UPON A CHRISTMAS EVE

ESKI rushes to the headquarters of Mister Weatherbee the Weather Watcher to tell him about the twins. "I might be able to reach them if I could use the Rainbow," says Eski. "do you think the Storm King will let me?"

"I'LL SEE," says Mister Weatherbee, "but the old Storm King is pretty grouchy about this time of the year!" Then he tunes in his radio and calls out: "Attention, Storm King! Weatherbee calling the Storm King!"

THE STORM KING answers with a thunderous growl. "Loan you the Rainbow? Are you crazy? Stop bothering me — I'm all tired out from shipping a batch of blizzards to North America and now I need my sleep! Goodbye!"

"NO USE," says Mister Weatherbee as he sadly hangs up. "Oh, please let me try to talk to him," begs Eski. The Storm King's phone rings again, but he just glares at it. Do you think he'll answer? (To Be Continued)

Copper Trade Slowdown Seen Short-Lived

Situation In Europe Expected To Bring Hike In Demand

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (U.P.) — The current slowdown in the copper business is likely to be both shallow and short-lived. The crisis in Europe — "which may be much worse than we think" — is the biggest bugaboo in sight.

That's the view of one of the few remaining veterans of the copper industry's early and bawling days — Louis Shattuck Cates, Phelps Dodge chairman who this week celebrates his 75th birthday in his 54th year as a mining man.

Demand for copper — often considered as one of the barometers of the industrial weather — has slackened in recent weeks. This has been the more striking because of the preceding months of tight supply that saw a flashy rise in its price. Production has been cut back now in many mines, mainly in the form of elimination of overtime work.

"The cutback in industrial production in Europe due to the Suez Canal crisis may depress the market for a time," Cates said in a birthday interview. "This could turn some British mined African metal toward the United States at a price lower than the 36 cents a pound we are now getting."

"But I can't see anything but increased demand for copper over the long run. The electric utilities and phone companies are extending their lines all the time."

"And atomic power is going to spread our market some day. They'll be putting up atomic utility plants in distant regions where coal is too expensive or water power unavailable. And then utilities will start up there — all of them using copper."

The profit picture has been pleasant this year for copper men. "At 36 cents a pound most copper companies can make good money," Cates points out. "Even at the 33¢ cents the British are now asking, the profit margin is good. I think that for the year Phelps Dodge's earnings should be around 100 million dollars, on a cash basis after paying 62 million in income taxes."

To the still vigorous Cates, mining is the most satisfying work of all. He started out to be an electrical engineer, took a short fling at international banking and got into copper because his banker uncle became involved in a mining venture.

"I wouldn't want to do anything else," he says. "And as for the slowdown just now, I don't think it will be much of a slump."

'57 Pig Crop Decline Seen

Ag Agency Predicts 2 Pct. Output Drop

WASHINGTON (U.P.) — An Agriculture Department survey indicated today that a decline in the production of hogs — influenced by low prices last year and this year — will continue through the first half of 1957.

This would mean smaller supplies of pork next year than during the year now ending.

The department forecast the 1957 spring pig crop at 52 million head, down 2 per cent from this year's spring crop of 53,136,000.

Pigs produced next spring will provide slaughter supplies during the following fall and winter. Supplies of cattle and beef next year, on the other hand, are expected to continue at this year's high level.

Hog prices dipped sharply in 1955 and continued at generally unfavorable levels, from the producer standpoint, during much of this year. This decline reflected the production last year of the largest peace time crop of pigs. The department also reported this year's fall pig crop totaled 36,535,000 head — down 4 per cent from the 1955 fall crop of 38,029,000.

The number of hogs over six months old, including sows, on farms Dec. 1 this year was reported about 15 per cent less than a year earlier. The number was estimated at 16,239,000.

The fall pig crop for 1956 and 1955 respectively, by major producing states:

Ohio 2,233,000 and 2,426,000; Indiana 3,795,000 and 3,695,000; Illinois 4,794,000 and 4,678,000; Michigan 604,000 and 632,000; Kentucky 937,000 and 903,000; Tennessee 875,000 and 849,000.

Cincy Fraternity Suspended From Campus Activities

CINCINNATI (U.P.) — University of Cincinnati officials Thursday suspended Sigma Alpha Mu fraternity from all activities as the result of morals charges brought by a 15-year-old girl. The order directed that the chapter house be closed.

The girl has charged 35 UC students had illicit relations with her.

Some of the charges involve alleged immoral relations at the Sigma Alpha Mu fraternity house. The university's inter-fraternity council suspended all of the chapter's activities for two months and fine it $100. It also recommended that the fraternity's national organization take further action.

Dr. Walter Langsam, president of the university, said the school's action was taken on recommendation of its committee on student conduct.

Magazine Editor Addresses Rotary At Regular Meeting

Members of the Circleville Rotary Club were addressed at their regular meeting Thursday noon, by Frank Abrahamson, editor of the American Rose Magazine.

He spoke on the therapeutic values of horticulture.

The guest speaker also mentioned that all five senses are involved in gardening and the sight, smell, and feel of flowers and plants are a great calming influence for any patient.

One of the most wide spread uses of horticulture in this work is for aid to the blind. Many gardens for the blind have been developed.

ONCE UPON A CHRISTMAS EVE

ESKI rushes to the headquarters of Mister Weatherbee the Weather Watcher to tell him about the twins. "I might be able to reach them if I could use the Rainbow," says Eski. "do you think the Storm King will let me?"

"I'LL SEE," says Mister Weatherbee, "but the old Storm King is pretty grouchy about this time of the year!" Then he tunes in his radio phone and calls out: "Attention, Storm King! Weatherbee calling the Storm King!"

THE STORM KING answers with a thunderous growl. "Loan you the Rainbow? Are you crazy? Stop bothering me — I'm all tired out from shipping a batch of blizzards to North America and now I need my sleep! Goodbye!"

"NO USE," says Mister Weatherbee as he sadly hangs up. "Oh, please let me try to talk to him," begs Eski. The Storm King's phone rings again, but he just glares at it. Do you think he'll answer? (To Be Continued)

Copper Trade Slowdown Seen Short-Lived

Situation In Europe Expected To Bring Hike In Demand

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The current slowdown in the copper business is likely to be both shallow and short-lived. The crisis in Europe — "which may be much worse than we think" — is the biggest bugaboo in sight.

That's the view of one of the few remaining veterans of the copper industry's early and brawling days — Louis Shattuck Cates, Phelps Dodge chairman who this week celebrates his 75th birthday in his 54th year as a mining man.

Demand for copper — often considered as one of the barometers of the industrial weather — has slackened in recent weeks. This has been the more striking because of the preceding months of tight supply that saw a flashy rise in its price. Production has been cut back now in many mines, mainly in the form of elimination of overtime work.

The cutback in industrial production in Europe due to the Suez Canal crisis may depress the market for a time, Cates said in a birthday interview. "This could turn some British mined African metal toward the United States at a price lower than the 36 cents a pound we are now getting."

"But I can't see anything but increased demand for copper over the long run. The electric utilities and phone companies are extending their lines all the time."

"And atomic power is going to spread our market some day. They'll be putting up atomic utility plants in distant regions where coal is too expensive or water power unavailable. And then utilities will start up there — all of them using copper."

The profit picture has been pleasant this year for copper men. "At 36 cents a pound most copper companies can make good money," Cates points out. "Even at the 33 1/2 cents the British are now asking, the profit margin is good. I think that for the year Phelps Dodge's earnings should be around 100 million dollars, on a cash basis after paying 62 million in income taxes."

To the still vigorous Cates, mining is the most satisfying work of all. He started out to be an electrical engineer, took a short fling at international banking and got into copper because his banker uncle became involved in a mining venture.

"I wouldn't want to do anything else," he says. "And as for the slowdown just now, I don't think it will be much of a slump."

'57 Pig Crop Decline Seen

Ag Agency Predicts 2 Pct. Output Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — An Agriculture Department survey indicated today that a decline in the production of hogs — influenced by low prices last year and this year — will continue through the first half of 1957.

This would mean smaller supplies of pork next year than during the year now ending.

The department forecast the 1957 spring pig crop at 52 million head, down 2 per cent from this year's spring crop of 53,136,000.

Pigs produced next spring will provide slaughter supplies during the following fall and winter. Supplies of cattle and beef next year, on the other hand, are expected to continue at this year's high level.

Hog prices dipped sharply in 1955 and continued at generally unfavorable levels, from the producer standpoint, during much of this year. This decline reflected the production last year of the largest peace time crop of pigs.

The department also reported this year's fall pig crop totaled 36,535,000 head — down 4 per cent from the 1955 fall crop of 38,029,000.

The number of hogs over six months old, including sows, on farms Dec. 1 this year was reported about 15 per cent less than a year earlier. The number was estimated at 16,239,000.

The fall pig crop for 1956 and 1955 respectively, by major producing states:

Ohio 2,233,000 and 2,426,000; Indiana 3,795,000 and 3,695,000; Illinois 4,794,000 and 4,678,000; Michigan 604,000 and 632,000; Kentucky 927,000 and 903,000; Tennessee 875,000 and 849,000.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My husband works nights and our evening dinner is the only family meal we have together with the children at the table. This seems like a good time to discuss the happenings of the day, and to hear from the children what they did in school, etc.

But it almost never fails that just as we sit down, Mack's mother walks in; and without even pausing to say "Hello," she launches into a detailed account of her day—from the moment she got out of bed that morning. She does sales work and we have to hear about each and every customer.

Occasionally the children want to speak about something, and I have to make them be quiet—and I know they've left lots unsaid that seemed important to them. I don't mind Mrs. J. eating with us once in a while; and I realize that she likes to talk things over with someone. But I don't think that our dinner hour is the proper time.

She lives alone and comes and goes as she pleases, and I think she could as well drop in on us after dinner. The situation upsets me so much at times that I am cross with Mack and the children; and I think meal time should be happy times.

E. B.
DEAR E. B.: This is indeed a serious problem and something should be done about it, to ensure your household a relaxed regime of fully respected family privacy at the dinner hour—so that parents and children may become better known to each other.

Men and women of only the slightest social training seem to "feel" in their bones, without being told, that you are out of bounds, if you show up at other people's meals, without specific invitation. And in cases where certain solitary individuals are compulsively determined to be "among friends," at whatever costs to common decency, their awkward or brassy or breezy drive to "carry it off" reveals their deep-down sense of discomfort about what they are doing.

And I think this explains your mother-in-law's highpowered entrance and torrential flow of gab, as she appears unbidden at your dinner hour. She knows she's violating the rules of right action. And so she starts talking and keeps on talking, to throw a "smoke screen" of sorts around her aggression; and to drown out the opposition—i.e., the emotional resistance you can't help showing; and the mixed feelings and misgivings that doubtless flicker in your husband's face: caught, as he is, between two fires.

Girl, 12, Finds Parents Slain

CLEVELAND (AP)—When 12-year-old Mary Knoll returned from Christmas shopping Thursday, she found the bodies of her mother and father on the floor in the living and dining rooms of their suburban Lakewood home.

New Formal Attire Campaign Aimed This Year At Males

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Breathes there a woman who hasn't dressed to the teeth on New Year's Eve only to have the man in her life show up in an old tweed suit?

This year, however, things may be different. The men's formal wear industry is going to bat in behalf of America's suffering womanhood, and is making sure Pop won't forget that only a "square" wears a business suit to a formal dance.

The boys are being reminded in various ways. For instance, starting today, any man who leaves a call to be wakened in any one of some 35 leading hotels throughout the country may be startled to be roused from slumber by a cheery voice saying:

"Good morning! It's 7:30. Remember, go formal New Year's Eve!"

Any man who stops in a flower shop anywhere in the country will be greeted by the message, "Go formal New Year's Eve and buy her a corsage."

For the next week the message will be dimmed into his ears by TV commentators, department store salesmen and—of course—the little woman.

As a matter of fact, the men have been waking up to the fact that clothes make the man for some time now, as witness the zooming sales of formal male attire.

In the past 10 years sales of dinner jackets, tails and other formal accoutrements have increased 10-fold. In 1946 the total sales of men's formal clothes totaled a

Satellite Tracker Selectd By Navy

NEW YORK (AP)—The Navy Department announced Thursday selection of a high-speed electronic device designed to calculate and predict the orbit of the first man-made satellite.

Santa Speaks French For Little Girl

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP)—There is a little French girl here who is convinced Santa Claus is a pretty swell guy.

She is Marilyn Michel, 3, who came to this country with her parents only six weeks ago.

She doesn't speak any English so she was a bit heart broken the other day when she went to a department store with her step-grandmother to see Santa. She saw all the other youngsters talking to him but she realized she couldn't speak his language. But Santa fooled her. He suddenly started talking to her in French and the happy Marilyn told him she wanted a "petite poupee"—a little doll for Christmas.

D. W. Jacot, 77, the department store "Pere Noel" says, "the smile she gave me at that moment was the crowning reward for my years of playing Santa Claus. It brought tears to my eyes."

Jacot explained that his parents, who were born in Switzerland, taught him to speak French and that although his command of the language isn't perfect it was good enough for Marilyn.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My husband works nights and our evening dinner is the only family meal we have together with the children at the table. This seems like a good time to discuss the happenings of the day, and to hear from the children what they did in school, etc.

But it almost never fails that just as we sit down, Mack's mother walks in; and without even pausing to say "Hello," she launches into a detailed account of her day—from the moment she got out of bed that morning. She does sales work and we have to hear about each and every customer.

Occasionally the children want to speak about something, and I have to make them be quiet—and I know they've left lots unsaid that seemed important to them. I don't mind Mrs. J. eating with us once in a while; and I realize that she likes to talk things over with someone. But I don't think that our dinner hour is the proper time.

She lives alone and comes and goes as she pleases, and I think she could as well drop in on us after dinner. The situation upsets me so much at times that I am cross with Mack and the children; and I think meal time should be happy times.

E. B.: This is indeed a serious problem and something should be done about it, to ensure your household a relaxed regime of fully respected family privacy at the dinner hour—so that parents and children may become better known to each other.

Men and women of only the slightest social training seem to "feel" in their bones, without being told, that you are out of bounds, if you show up at other people's meals, without specific invitation. And in cases where certain solitary individuals are compulsively determined to be "among friends," at whatever costs to common decency, their awkward or brassy or breezy drive to "carry it off" reveals their deep-down sense of discomfort about what they are doing.

And I think this explains your mother-in-law's highpowered entrance and torrential flow of gab, as she appears unbidden at your dinner hour. She knows she's violating the rules of right action. And so she starts talking and keeps on talking, to throw a "smoke screen" of sorts around her aggression; and to drown out the opposition—i.e., the emotional resistance you can't help showing; and the mixed feelings and misgiv-

Middletown Ups Pay To Teachers

MIDDLETOWN (AP)—The board of education here has increased the pay of public school teachers an average of 13.6 per cent, effective Dec. 31.

Under the new scale, teachers with bachelor degrees will start at $3,900, with a top pay of $5,800. The present minimum is $3,300 with a maximum of $5,120. The new maximum pay would be reached after 14 years' teaching.

Teachers with master's degrees will start at $4,200, with a top of $6,100. The present scale is $3,600 to $5,420.

Plant In India Gets Bank Loan

WASHINGTON (AP)—Shortly after India Premier Nehru's departure here Thursday, the World Bank announced a $20 million loan to the Indian Iron and Steel Co. Ltd. at Burpur, West Bengal, India.

The loan, the bank said, is to help finance additional rolling capacity for the privately-owned company.

Bank officials said the loan had been under study for some time.

Girl, 12, Finds Parents Slain

CLEVELAND (AP)—When 12-year-old Mary Knoll returned from Christmas shopping Thursday, she found the bodies of her mother and father on the floor in the living and dining rooms of their suburban Lakewood home.

Police said Joseph Knoll, who was in his early 50s, apparently plunged a 7-inch knife into the chest of his 48-year-old wife Elizabeth, then slashed his own wrists and stabbed himself in the chest. Knoll died en route to Lakewood Hospital. His wife was dead when police arrived at the home.

Yule Tree Erected For 'Homeless'

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The owner of a little delicatessen in a crowded part of downtown Philadelphia bought one of the biggest trees he could find, set it up on a patch of ground alongside the store, and decorated it beautifully.

Then among the ornaments, the lights and silver, he placed a sign: "This tree is for all people who are homeless or who have no Christmas tree of their own."

Breathes there a woman who hasn't dressed to the teeth on New Year's Eve only to have the man in her life show up in an old tweed suit?

This all too frequent tragedy should constitute grounds for divorce but most women figure even a man who looks like a refugee from a rummage sale is better than no man at all. So they swallow their chagrin, keep a stiff upper lip and go out with the brutes anyway.

WASHINGTON (AP) — India's Prime Minister Nehru is an intellectual but, nevertheless, there are some things he has to learn the hard way and it seems to take him a long time.

His visit to the United States and his talks with President Eisenhower may have persuaded him at last that American foreign policy is neither rigid nor aggressive and that the U. S. government's intentions are good.

If that has been the effect on Nehru—and he has given some indication it may be—the results will have to show up later. Neither he nor Eisenhower has revealed what they talked about.

It may seem strange to think that Nehru would have to talk to Eisenhower to develop a better feeling toward the United States, especially after he had dealt first-hand for years with two fine American ambassadors, Chester Bowles and John Sherman Cooper, both men of good will.

But the record shows it took Nehru a long time to learn the facts of Indian life.

He had led a sheltered life. Until he was 16 his wealthy father hired tutors for him. Then he was sent to Harrow and Cambridge in England. He stayed there until he was 23.

While there he became conscious of world affairs and made up his mind India should win its independence from Britain. But he was 31 before he made his first visit to an Indian village. When he saw what life was really like among his people, he had a practical and earnest reason for wanting independence and fighting for it.

Still, it was not until he was 36 and made a second visit to Europe that he realized that independence without a social, political and economic program was an invitation to chaos.

He returned from that trip a convinced Socialist. It is Nehru who, when India won independence, took the country down the road to socialism which it is following now.

It wasn't until he was about 37 that he became conscious of labor unions and saw a need for them in India's developing industry.

All that may seem pretty slow on the uptake for an intellectual. But that's the way it was. Nehru has been critical of the West for years and apparently suspicious of the United States.

But before he left here this week he said "I gathered the impression" from Eisenhower that American policy is not rigid—the way he said it seemed to indicate he was surprised—and is a flexible one which can adapt itself to changing situations.

While he was here Nehru had some critical things to say about Russia, although he has been very

Sparkman Calling For Policy Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.) has called for a "re-appraisal" of American foreign policy in the light of developments behind the Iron Curtain and in the Middle East.

Sparkman, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he thinks it inevitable that congressional groups will ask "a lot of questions" about the Eisenhower administration's course in the international field.

"It has made mistakes in the past. But I am not so much concerned with what already has happened as with where we are going from here. I think the administration's reliance on the United Nations in the Middle Eastern crisis was all to the good and I'd like to know more about what it intends to do in that field in the future."

Pot Of Coffee Blamed In Death

COSHOCOTON (AP) — A pot of coffee is blamed in the death Thursday of Mrs. Myne Pocock, 88, who lived alone in an apartment here.

Firemen theorized that Mrs. Pocock, who was crippled, set a pot of coffee on her kitchen stove and apparently left the kitchen, unaware that flames from the stove had ignited her clothing.

A resident of an upstairs apartment, Mrs. Jane Flecoat, heard Mrs. Pocock's screams and found her in an overstuffed chair, enveloped in flames. Mrs. Flecoat put out the fire and called firemen. Mrs. Pocock died from burns and suffocation, firemen said.

$2 Billion Highway Spending Program Envisioned For Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A program calling for more than two billion dollars' spending in the next 13 years on Ohio's interstate highway system was outlined today by Highway Director S. O. Linzell.

He said the program was prepared "at the informal request of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads."

The cost of $2,113,100,000, Linzell said in a letter addressed to the clerks of the Ohio Senate and House, is based on present-day figures for improvement of about 1,300 miles of highways.

Linzell recommended the legislature raise "close to 50 million dollars a year additional funds after bond issue funds are invested, just to adequately match federal aid allotments and to do the most necessary 'housekeeping' types of improvements on the entire state highway system."

New state money is not needed now, Linzell said, but the legislature should authorize it in the coming 1957 session "to avoid delaying programming of specific projects for advance plan preparation in the next two years."

The extra money would be needed for state highway projects not on the interstate highway system, Linzell emphasized.

Linzell also called for the establishment of a rotary fund to

South Africa Sees New Race Rioting

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Rioting flared Thursday outside the building where the government is conducting a mass treason trial. Police opened fire and 16 persons were injured, including 4 whites, 10 nonwhites and 2 policemen.

The trial of 153 persons linked with groups opposing the government's segregation laws has brought racial tensions to new heights in Johannesburg.

Among the defendants are a member of parliament, clergymen, newspapermen, and individuals from the white European, African, Indian-origin and mixed blood communities.

next 13 years would call for an expenditure of about 356 million dollars, according to Linzell's present figures.

U. S. 20 spending would be in excess of 205 millions and more than 300 millions would be spent to bring U. S. 40 up to superhighway standards.

The cost of U. S. 42 improvements are estimated at 230 millions and the cost of bringing Ohio 18 between Akron and Youngstown up to snuff would run nearly 100 millions.

3 Women Thieves Given Warnings

PORTSMOUTH (AP) — Municipal Judge Lowell Thompson has warned a 71-year-old grandmother, her daughter-in-law and a third woman to stay out of Ohio for three years or spend four months apiece in jail.

The warning came Thursday as Judge Thompson ordered the Slaytersville, Ky., trio jailed for 30 days for what police said was the biggest shopping spree in the history of Portsmouth.

Mrs. Nell Williams, the grandmother; Mrs. Ivy Williams, 42, the daughter-in-law and mother of five, and Mrs. Ernestine Arnett, a relative and mother of two, were charged with shoplifting hundreds of dollars worth of merchandise.

The United States government disposes of its used flags by burning them.

King Robert the Bruce of Scotland (1274-1329) was a leper.

He said the program was prepared "at the informal request of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads."

The cost of $2,113,100,000, Linzell said in a letter addressed to the clerks of the Ohio Senate and House, is based on present-day figures for improvement of about 1,300 miles of highways.

Linzell recommended the legislature raise "close to $50 million dollars a year additional funds after bond issue funds are invested, just to adequately match federal aid allotments and to do the most necessary 'housekeeping' types of improvements on the entire state highway system. . . ."

New state money is not needed now, Linzell said, but the legislature should authorize it in the coming 1957 session "to avoid delaying programming of specific projects for advance plan preparation in the next two years."

The extra money would be needed for state highway projects not on the interstate highway system, Linzell emphasized.

Linzell also called for the establishment of a rotary fund to give the highway department the money to go ahead with acquisition of rights of way five years in advance of actual construction.

The interstate system in Ohio consists principally of U. S. 25—the Dixie Highway—which runs north and south the length of western Ohio; U. S. 42, from Cincinnati to Cleveland; U. S. 40 which runs east and west across the center of the state, and U. S. 20, an east-west highway across northern Ohio.

The U. S. 25 project over the

South Africa Sees New Race Rioting

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Rioting flared Thursday outside the building where the government is conducting a mass treason trial. Police opened fire and 16 persons were injured, including 4 whites, 10 nonwhites and 2 policemen.

The trial of 153 persons linked with groups opposing the government's segregation laws has brought racial tensions to new heights in Johannesburg.

Among the defendants are a member of parliament, clergymen, newspapermen, and individuals from the white European, African, Indian-origin and mixed blood communities.

next 13 years would call for an expenditure of about 356 million dollars, according to Linzell's present figures.

U. S. 20 spending would be in excess of 205 millions and more than 300 millions would be spent to bring U. S. 40 up to superhighway standards.

The cost of U. S. 42 improvements are estimated at 230 millions and the cost of bringing Ohio 18 between Akron and Youngstown up to snuff would run nearly 100 millions.

3 Women Thieves Given Warnings

PORTSMOUTH (AP) — Municipal Judge Lowell Thompson has warned a 71-year-old grandmother, her daughter-in-law and a third woman to stay out of Ohio for three years or spend four months apiece in jail.

The warning came Thursday as Judge Thompson ordered the Slay-ersville, Ky., trio jailed for 30 days for what police said was the biggest shoplifting spree in the history of Portsmouth.

Mrs. Nell Williams, the grandmother; Mrs. Ivy Williams, 42, the daughter-in-law and mother of five, and Mrs. Ernestine Arnett, a relative and mother of two, were charged with shoplifting hundreds of dollars worth of merchandise.

The United States government disposes of its used flags by burning them.

King Robert the Bruce of Scotland (1274-1329) was a leper.

Meet The New State 'Family'

Farmer From Logan County Is Speaker Of Ohio House

Editor's Note: Following is the fourth in a series of five articles on the people and problems likely to confront the Republican party as it takes over full command of the Ohio state government next month.

By ART PARKS

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The easy way to do it would be to say Ohio House Speaker Roger Cloud is a most unusual man.

But that would give no one a real picture of the third man who — with Gov.-elect C. William O'Neill and Senate Majority Leader C. Stanley Mechem — will be piloting the state of Ohio over the financial shoals in the months just ahead.

The speaker of the House, traditionally and ceremoniously, recognizes a member who wishes to address the House as: "The gentleman from . . ."

But no time-honored ceremony would be involved in Cloud's case. Almost without exception, his fellow House members think of him, truly, as: "The Gentleman from Logan County."

Even though his medium-sized frame seems always on the go, the prematurely gray speaker always seems to have time to be polite. That trait is not entirely unknown in legislative halls, but it becomes rarer as tense sessions warm up.

The second shocker about Roger Cloud is when he begins to talk. In this age of sloppy diction, Cloud's clipped, almost letter-perfect speech is astonishing; his command of the language is almost awe-inspiring.

He isn't content with the almost-correct word to express his thoughts; he wants the exact word, and without pausing or stumbling, he reaches into his vast vocabulary and finds it.

Sometimes the words he digs from the recesses of his mind are total strangers to many House members, but they manage to get the drift of what he's talking about.

As House leader, Cloud has problems his Senate counterpart — C. Stanley Mechem — doesn't have. The difference is largely one of numbers. Cloud has roughly four times as many Republican members to "handle" as does Mechem. That means four times as many personal contacts—little conferences in which Cloud may placate, scold, bolster or cajole one or several members as circumstances dictate.

The speaker celebrated his 46th birthday early this month as he prepared to start his second term as House leader.

He is one of the most diligent laborers in legislative halls of any recent speakers.

Cloud intended to be a lawyer. He was a successful schoolboy debater and enrolled in a pre-law course at Ohio State University after graduating from high school at 15. But a gasoline station explosion claimed his brother's life and Roger found it necessary to return to his family's farm to help out.

The legal studies continued by way of a correspondence course but with Cloud it was only a labor of love. He never took the state bar examination.

Cloud operates a 550-acre farm within two miles of his birthplace. He also has a major interest in Cloud & Alverneis, Inc., specialized construction contractors, with headquarters in Bellefontaine.

In this day, stories are not supposed to have morals appended. But for the wisecracks who contend a "nice guy" has two strikes on him in this world and cannot make the grade, take the word of Ohio's law-makers:

"Each of these men," Menjou commented, "stands out as an oasis in an otherwise bleak landscape of fading elegance on the part of the average male."

Next: Clear sailing? Ohio's all-GOP "team" will have its problems, too.

Menjou Selects Best-Dressed Men

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actor Adolphe Menjou, a fairly standard fixture on lists of best dressed men, has his own list.

Menjou, confining his selections to California, named these: Charles Thomas of Los Angeles, secretary of the Navy; Gary Cooper, actor; Robert Gross, aviation executive; Jacques Bergerac, actor; Sidney Franklin, motion picture director; Fred Astaire, dancer; Robert E. Petersen, publisher; Clark Gable, actor; Leigh Batson, broker, and William Keck, oil firm executive.

"Each of these men," Menjou commented, "stands out as an oasis in an otherwise bleak landscape of fading elegance on the part of the average male."

New Truck Expands 5 Times In Size

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A 14-ton aluminum truck that expands to more than five times its on-the-road dimensions at the touch of a button is being demonstrated by the Aluminum Co. of America.

In its "closed" position, the truck-trailer looks like any other of the commonly used "semitrailer." But press a button and in a scant five minutes the inside area of 150 square feet is transformed into an area of 780 square feet.

Manufactured by the Gerstlacher Co. of Wooster, Ohio, the trailer will find use as a service vehicle for the armed forces or traveling exhibit housing for industry.

Boy Wrecks Car, Then Kills Self

COLUMBUS (AP)—A ruling of suicide was returned Thursday in the death of Ronald Bradley, 17-year-old high school student, who sheriff's deputies said shot himself with a .22 caliber rifle after he wrecked the family car.

Franklin County Coroner Dr. Robert A. Evans returned the ruling.

Kiddies To Visit Fathers In Prison

VANCOUVER, B. C. (AP)—The province of British Columbia is sending a hundred children to its Oakalla prison in the next few days and it promises to be a happy occasion.

The children and other members of the families of 106 "specially selected" inmates have been invited to an unprecedented Christmas party with approval of the provincial attorney general. They'll be free to mingle with the convicts in the prison gymnasium.

Package Hoax Ushers In Thug

WEST HAVEN, Conn. (AP)—Police said Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Johnson were eating supper Thursday when a man came to the door with a Christmas package. He told Johnson he had a present for Mrs. Johnson, so Johnson let him in, and led him to the kitchen.

The man put down the package, whipped out an automatic and robbed the couple of $22.

Russian Goal Said To Export Scholars To Top U.S. Dollars

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Soviet Union is turning out engineers at a rate three times faster than the United States, a recent visitor to Russia told the Autumn graduating class of Ohio State University Thursday.

"Its goal seems to be to export scholars to match our export of foreign aid dollars," Norman P. Auburn, president of the University of Akron, told the commencement audience.

The Russians, Auburn said, are proud to be called intellectual "egg heads." Measured by our standards, he said, the Soviet Union is paying college professors about $25,000 and outstanding research scientists $60,000 a year. "The best we can hope for," he said, "is a period of competitive co-existence." The Russians, he warned, "are playing for time" while their economy and war potential are being strengthened.

CAMPUS PRESS FREEDOM

IT IS GOOD to know that editors of college newspapers have not lost their eagerness to hold high the torch of "freedom of the press." Kansas University editors of the Daily Kansan, the student newspaper, currently are fighting for their "rights." The trouble is that they are striving for a freedom that does not and cannot exist on a college campus as long as the student newspaper is operated by the university.

It seems the Daily Kansan's board has amended its constitution to remove the bar against taking sides in political issues on and off the campus. But Journalism Dean Burton Marvin clamped down and told the editors that this would not be permitted.

The editors have a point in that they can hardly be expected to get adequate training in expression of editorial opinions without being permitted to express those opinions. But there is nothing requiring the University to publish those opinions in the student publication.

The very fact that the Daily Kansan's operation is supported by tax funds makes it an organ of the state, albeit run by students. This means that if it takes sides in political matters, the state itself is taking sides.

Only if a financially-independent newspaper were to come into being could it be "free."

This is the final, important point — and an excellent lesson for the students — that as long as a publication owes its existence to the state or any government, it cannot be free.

A MORAL GRANDEUR

THE TWENTIETH Century, despite the record it has chalked up in the progress of man, has also produced some of the grossest examples in history of man's bestiality and lack of moral principle.

The wars of this century and the communist plague have devastated the theories of man's innate goodness. The idea that "might makes right" still holds sway in a large part of the world.

But the rebellion in Hungary and the general unrest in the Soviet satellites has brought some second thoughts. One of the most interesting reactions is that of George Kennan, former State Department planner who first publicly stated the doctrine of "containment" of communism.

Of the history being made in Hungary, Kennan recently said:

"These events do have grandeur, very great grandeur, because they are visible proof that certain principles, certain moral principles, really must be observed in the long run in the successful government of great peoples.

"These events prove that if those principles are consistently violated over a long period of time, this violation avenges itself. It inevitably produces trouble and disorder and even greater violence and bloodshed and tragedy.

"The Soviet government has ignored these principles, violated these principles for a very long time indeed, and they are

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

It is still an economic truism that real power exists in those countries which manufacture the greatest quantities of steel. We are still in the steel age. The largest producer of steel is the United States, producing about 117,000,000 tons a year. Soviet Russia comes next with a minimum of about 50,000,000 tons a year. This figure means that Soviet Russia surpassed Great Britain which produced only 22,120,000 tons in 1955.

West Germany has made the greatest progress among European nations despite the fact that Germany is split into two parts, one held by Soviet Russia. The economic superiority of West over East Germany must make a tremendous impression upon all the German people who undoubtedly wonder why socialistic production is so inferior to capitalistic production in the same country. West Germany is producing more steel than France and Great Britain and is pushing the Volkswagen which has now passed a million units. This is an enormous figure by European standards. It needs to be noted that the Volkswagen has invaded the American market.

Economists may draw all sorts of conclusions from the unusually sound condition of West Germany but it might all be summed up in the ability of a people to work hard, to pursue conservative and tested principles, to be imaginative in commerce and industry without prolonging dependence upon their neighbors beyond reason.

Furthermore the Germans have a persistent memory of the horrors of inflation and they avoid it like a plague which it really is. Therefore they handled their post-World War II inflation very carefully and depended on foreign trade to produce a balance in their favor which they have succeeded in doing. The West Germans have competed successfully in Europe and other markets against other European nations only because they recognized that in foreign trade lay their independence and to that foreign trade they devoted themselves.

Japan is trying to do the same thing but with less success than West Germany because Japan's principal and logical markets are closed on account of Communist occupation of these areas. If Japan succeeds in trading freely with Manchuria, Red China and Siberia, Japan will have an enormous balance of trade in her favor.

It is really remarkable that the Japanese blandishments to join the Asiatic-African bloc have for so long resisted the Soviet group as first step toward becoming neutral. The next step, of course, would be an economic alliance with Red China — and then nobody can tell what could happen.

The Japanese must trade with the mainland of Asia if they are to become strong again, just as West Germany has to engage in a world-wide foreign trade if it is to be independent and strong.

American foreign policy is shifting from the traditional current in which it has moved since 1815. This policy has been basically Europe First and it has generally been related to British foreign policy.

If the United States is to leave that policy and to adopt another in which the center of friendship is India, then all other countries must adjust to that. For instance, West Germany, under such circumstances, will be increasingly interested in the European Union and will support the ideas of the Belgian, Paul Henri Spaak.

getting the results of that in Eastern Europe today," Kennan asserts.

Men searching for a meaning in life and in the events of history may yet find it in the whirlwind Russia is now reaping for the misdeeds wantonly and wilfully sown.

CHAPTER 21

THE next evening Casson was in the Sheepy Arms before Perry got there and, as soon as Perry entered, he acted.

He waved at Perry and insisted on buying him a pint.

"Let's go and sit down," he said. "I've got some things to show you. They'll interest you." He sat down and carefully opened the flat paper package which he was carrying.

"They're engravings of scenes in the Peninsular War. Brutal, but wonderfully drawn. The grotesque in art! Look at this." Perry glanced at the print without interest and started to drink his beer.

Casson had also brought some of his architectural photographs, and these interested Perry more. Casson led the conversation round to the influence of Greek and Roman originals on English architecture and Perry became almost animated, even confessing his desire to visit Rome, a desire which he might have fulfilled, he said, if only he spoke a foreign language.

He recovered himself from this admission of failure by shifting hurriedly to an explanation of his view that specialized knowledge was of no consequence since the connoisseur—by a fraction he mispronounced the word—knew instinctively what was right and what was wrong. He himself, however, bothered with specialized learning. Casson agreed heartily.

"Furthermore," said Casson, smiling to himself at his own hypocrisy, "specialization is actually dangerous. You will of course remember what Clive Bell wrote?"

Perry made an inconclusive motion of his head. "He wrote that fine states of mind—that's to say, exquisitely and fully vivid states of feeling—are the aim of civilized desire. If that's so, then you must be quite ruthless in your pursuit of those fine states. You agree?"

Perry not only agreed, but leaped upon the theory with some fervor. But, as he launched into his own disquisition, Casson drained his tankard and looked pointedly at its emptiness. Perry hesitated, then rose to his feet. "I should wish to buy a drink," he said.

"That's decent of you," Casson replied.

He brought two pints back to their table.

"You think that one must really be ruthless in winning those states of mind you were talking about?" he asked eagerly.

Casson parried the question.

"Don't you?" he asked in his turn.

"Yes," Perry answered. "Yes, I do think that you are right. A person should be clear-minded about it: what I myself would call skillfully selfish."

Casson told him stories of his rich collector friends, most of them invented, and Perry's interest warmed again. Casson finished his second pint and put down his tankard with a bang on the table.

"Have a chaser with me," he suggested. "I always do when I'm dining in town." Perry shook his head.

"I never touch spirits," he said.

"No, thank you. I really must be going home."

"One for the road," Casson insisted.

Reluctantly Perry accepted. Casson had a whisky and bought Perry a large Amontillado. Perry tried to sip his very slowly, but Casson forced the pace, and when they left the pub together Perry was walking with deliberation.

"You seem to know a lot about works of art," said Casson as they moved off up the road.

"Have you done any collecting?"

"I have," he replied. "As a matter of fact I have got quite a nice collection. Would you care to see it?"

"If you're not too busy," said Casson casually.

On the step Perry fumbled for a moment with his latch-key, then opened the door, let Casson in, shut and bolted the door after him. On the walls as they went up the stairs, Casson noticed two engravings, one of Blenheim, one of Castle Howard. They came on to a small landing at the end of the first flight. Perry went ahead into the living-room.

"Wait a minute," Perry called out. "I'm going to light up."

There was the rasp and flare of a match. Casson waited, peering up to the second storey, trying to see the shape of the house above them in the darkness.

The living-room began to glow with the light of candles.

"Come in," Perry called. Casson went in.

The mantelpiece was such as you would expect to find in any house along that street but on it were two silver Georgian candlesticks. Quite good ones.

The fireplace was framed by two high-backed wing armchairs. Definitely Queen Anne. Against the wall opposite the fireplace was a Sheraton sofa-table. Casson went over to examine it, admired its polish, and wondered if the handles on the twin drawers were original. On the sofa-table stood a set of six Bristol glass goblets of a cold, dark, menacing blue. Either side of the table, against the wall, was a mahogany shield-back chair — almost certainly Hepplewhite. It was clear that Perry bought well, though whether it was by luck or good judgment Casson could not yet tell.

The rug beneath his feet was blue-and-gold, threaded through with a motif of gleaming purple, and it looked good, very good. Casson wished he knew something about carpets since he dearly wanted to know what it cost. He estimated the value of the antiques in the room at about four hundred pounds; perhaps more if you included the rug. And bought over several years. Which meant that Perry, to pay his rent and daily bills as well, would need about seven hundred a year. More of course, if he were saving up for his ultimate retirement from crime.

They chatted for some time, mainly about furniture. Then Perry asked a question which startled Casson.

"I suppose you go a lot to Clubs in London?"

"Oh, yes," Casson replied, wondering what the devil he was driving at. "Quite a lot."

"And I suppose most of the members have furniture like this?" Perry continued, looking round the room.

"Some do," he said. "But not all of them appreciate these things, you know."

"I suppose most of them are rich?" Perry asked. Casson thought he saw daylight and his heart hammered. Perry was sounding him out, intending to use him as a pointer who would scent and indicate the rich prey in the Clubs.

"I know quite a number of rich ones," Casson replied. "They're an odd lot, very

CAMPUS PRESS FREEDOM
IT IS GOOD to know that editors of college newspapers have not lost their eagerness to hold high the torch of "freedom of the press." Kansas University editors of the Daily Kansan, the student newspaper, currently are fighting for their "rights."

The trouble is that they are striving for a freedom that does not and cannot exist on a college campus as long as the student newspaper is operated by the university.

It seems the Daily Kansan's board has amended its constitution to remove the bar against taking sides in political issues on and off the campus. But Journalism Dean Burton Marvin clamped down and told the editors that this would not be permitted.

The editors have a point in that they can hardly be expected to get adequate training in expression of editorial opinions without being permitted to express those opinions. But there is nothing requiring the University to publish those opinions in the student publication.

The very fact that the Daily Kansan's operation is supported by tax funds makes it an organ of the state, albeit run by students. This means that if it takes sides in political matters, the state itself is taking sides.

Only if a financially-independent newspaper were to come into being could it be "free."

This is the final, important point — and an excellent lesson for the students — that as long as a publication owes its existence to the state or any government, it cannot be free.

A MORAL GRANDEUR
THE TWENTIETH Century, despite the record it has chalked up in the progress of man, has also produced some of the gross examples in history of man's bestiality and lack of moral principle.

The wars of this century and the communist plague have devastated the theories of man's innate goodness. The idea that "might makes right" still holds sway in a large part of the world.

But the rebellion in Hungary and the general unrest in the Soviet satellites has brought some second thoughts. One of the most interesting reactions is that of George Kennan, former State Department planner who first publicly stated the doctrine of "containment" of communism.

Of the history being made in Hungary, Kennan recently said:
"These events do have grandeur, very great grandeur, because they are visible proof that certain principles, certain moral principles, really must be observed in the long run in the successful government of great peoples."

"These events prove that if those principles are consistently violated over a long period of time, this violation avenges itself. It inevitably produces trouble and disorder and even greater violence and bloodshed and tragedy."

"The Soviet government has ignored these principles, violated these principles for a very long time indeed, and they are

Taj Mahal On Every Corner

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (U) — Money talks every where in America today. But here the big dollar emits a mighty holler.
You have to be stone deaf not to hear it, or color blind not to see it in this platinum playground of Florida's Gold Coast.
The "expense account rich" who prefer to live quietly in their own hometowns (so the neighbors won't get jealous), like to flaunt their wealth in public here.
But in a way it's hard to do. One man's Cadillac is about as long as another man's. A wife can wear only so many minks on her back without smothering.
"The only way the rich can impress each other here," said one longtime student of the foibles of the well-to-do, "is at charitable functions. One big shot gets up and says, 'I'll contribute $5,000,' and another big shot puts him in his place by saying, 'Put me down for ten grand.'"
But the quickest way for a stranger to attract attention here is either to stroll down the street nude or with a portrait of Salmon P. Chase plastered on his forehead.

Who is Salmon P. Chase? Well, look in your wallet, and pull out the first $10,000 bill you come across. The guy portrayed on it is Salmon P. Chase, who was Abe Lincoln's secretary of the treasury.
Some 1,750,000 people visit Miami Beach every year, and millions more wonder what it is really like.
In all India there is but one Taj Mahal. In Miami Beach there is a Taj Mahal or a reasonable facsimile on nearly every corner.
Each is a hotel with ocean front rooms renting for $40 a day up during the winter season and suites for $100 a day up. A famous couple during a two-week stay in a flossy penthouse ran up a bill of $6,000—more than a lot of people spend in an entire year.
In European cities tourists visit cathedrals, museums and palaces. Miami Beach is perhaps the only city in the world which has guided tours of hotel lobbies, each more splendid than the last.

Here a bartender gets about $60 a week in salary and $140 or more in tips. A dishwasher can make up to $90 a week. Since few tourists come out to the kitchen to tip the dishwasher, he gets to keep any stray raw oyster pearls the guests overlook.
Miami Beach has 381 hotels, 360 restaurants and night clubs, 19 churches and synagogues, 2,200 apartment buildings, 6,000 private residences, two municipal golf courses, 10 parks, a free fishing pier, eight miles of beach and 416 swimming pools.
It has 9 public schools and 80 private schools!
What doesn't Miami Beach have? It doesn't have a cemetery.
The city fathers decided they didn't need one after a disgruntled tourist exclaimed, "I would not be caught dead here."
It doesn't have a railroad station, a slum, a gambling hall, a place where you can buy a five-cent hot dog, or a pawn shop.

getting the results of that in Eastern Europe today," Kennan asserts.
Men searching for a meaning in life and in the events of history may yet find it in the whirlwind Russia is now reaping for the misdeeds wantonly and wilfully sown.

George E. Sokolsky's
These Days
It is still an economic truism that real power exists in those countries which manufacture the greatest quantities of steel. We are still in the steel age. The largest producer of steel is the United States, producing about 117,000,000 tons a year. Soviet Russia comes next with a minimum of about 50,000,000 tons a year. This figure means that Soviet Russia surpassed Great Britain which produced only 22,120,000 tons in 1955.
West Germany has made the greatest progress among European nations despite the fact that Germany is split into two parts, one held by Soviet Russia. The economic superiority of West over East Germany must make a tremendous impression upon all the German people who undoubtedly wonder why socialistic production is so inferior to capitalistic production in the same country. West Germany is producing more steel than France and Great Britain and is pushing the Volkswagen which has now passed a million units. This is an enormous figure by European standards. It needs to be noted that the Volkswagen has invaded the American market.
Economists may draw all sorts of conclusions from the unusually sound condition of West Germany but it might all be summed up in the ability of a people to work hard, to pursue conservative and tested principles, to be imaginative in commerce and industry without prolonging dependence upon their neighbors beyond reason.
Furthermore the Germans have a persistent memory of the horrors of inflation and they avoid it like a plague which it really is. Therefore they handled their post-World War II inflation very carefully and depended on foreign trade to produce a balance in their favor which they have succeeded in doing. The West Germans have competed successfully in Europe and other markets against other European nations only because they recognized that in foreign trade lay their independence and to that foreign trade they devoted themselves.
Japan is trying to do the same thing but with less success than West Germany because Japan's principal and logical markets are closed on account of Communist occupation of these areas. If Japan succeeds in trading freely with Manchuria, Red China and Siberia, Japan will have an enormous balance of trade in her favor.
It is really remarkable that the Japanese blandishments to join the Asiatic-African group as first step toward becoming neutral. The next step, of course, would be an economic alliance with Red China — and then nobody can tell what could happen.
The Japanese must trade with the mainland of Asia if they are to become strong again, just as West Germany has to engage in a world-wide foreign trade if it is to be independent and strong.
American foreign policy is shifting from the traditional current in which it has moved since 1815. This policy has been basically Europe First and it has generally been related to British foreign policy.
If the United States is to leave that policy and to adopt another in which the center of friendship is India, then all other countries must adjust to that. For instance, West Germany, under such circumstances, will be increasingly interested in the European Union and will support the ideas of the Belgian, Paul Henri Spaak.

Knock-Knees In Children Nothing To Worry About
By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
MANY parents are unduly concerned because their children are knock-kneed.
This deformity, common in children between the ages of two and six, is usually overcome with little or no treatment. Adults are seldom afflicted.
In fact, a British orthopedist, Dr. F. C. Durbin, contends that knock-knee "might almost be regarded as a normal phase in childhood."
The most common cause of this deformity in youngsters is a delay in acquiring postural muscle reflexes. However, any pathological condition of ligaments, muscles or bone may be the cause of this disorder, which doctors call genu valgum.
It may be wise to consult an orthopedist if you are worried about your youngster's legs and feet. But there are things you can do to help correct this muscular deficiency at home.
Dr. Durbin, an expert on the subject, gives several suggestions for parents to follow in a recent issue of "The Practitioner."
For one thing, don't let your child assume harmful postures while sitting or eating. Don't permit him to sit on the floor on his heels with his feet rotated outward. Dr. Durbin has found this particular position is very common among youngsters viewing television.

Your child must not stand with his feet apart and turned out. Don't take him on long walks or on shopping tours unless you have a stroller, buggy or some other device in which he can ride when he becomes tired.
Keep him off scooters, but encourage him to run about normally and to use tricycles, bicycles and other pedal toys.
Dr. Durbin also recommends letting a knock-kneed youngster sit astride a rocking horse frequently, remarking: "Who has ever seen a knock-kneed jockey?"
QUESTION AND ANSWER
Q. M.: Would it be possible for me to have a sandpaper operation to remove blotches and small holes left by a skin disease which has been cured?
A.: This depends upon the type of skin disease.
Certain cases of acne scars have been benefited by the sandpaper treatment, but it takes skill to perform it.

JOHN THE BAPTIST FORETELLS THE COMING OF JESUS CHRIST, THE SAVIOR

Scripture—John 1:1-18; Luke 2:1-20.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

THE FIRST part of today's lesson may not be made quite clear to the younger members of a Sunday school, but the older ones may be led to see that John the Baptist came to prophesy the coming of Christ, and to explain Him as the bringer of light to the world, and to discuss the words of St. John the Apostle.

"In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God.

"The same was in the beginning with God.

"All things were made by Him; and without Him was not any thing made that was made.

"In Him was life; and the life was the light of men. And the light shineth in darkness; and the darkness comprehended it not.

"There was a man sent from God, whose name was John. The same came for a witness, to bear witness of the Light, that all men through Him might believe."

John the Baptist was not the place where prophets had foretold that the Messiah would be born, lived a carpenter by the name of Joseph whose wife was Mary.

The two made the toilsome journey to the "city of David," the line from which Joseph came, to pay their tax. The inn was full, and the only place they could find to spend the night was a stable, a crude place. There, in that humble place, Mary gave birth to a beautiful Baby Boy, and "she wrapped Him in swaddling clothes and laid Him in a manger."

Now there were shepherds in fields that night keeping watch over their sheep. Suddenly a great light shone upon them, coming from heaven, and it frightened them. "And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them."

"And the angel said unto them, Fear not; for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

MEMORY VERSE

"For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, which is Christ the Lord."—Luke 2:11.

Light, but was sent to bear witness of that Light—Jesus, who was the true Light, "which lighteth every man that cometh into the world. He was in the world, and the world was made by Him, and the world knew Him not. He came unto His own, and His own received Him not."

There is enough material in those words of St. John's to give material for questions and discussion with the older young people and for the teacher.

The lovely Christmas story of the birth of Christ, is always one of the joys of the season. St. Luke is the only one who tells of the announcement, Mary's visit after it to her cousin Elizabeth, mother of John the Baptist, and the circumstances of John's birth, childhood and emergence from the wilderness to proclaim the coming of Christ.

Caesar Augustus, the Roman emperor, declared a tax to be collected in the city of one's lineage. Now at the town of Nazareth, 80 miles north of Bethlehem, the

"For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, which is Christ the Lord." They would know the Babe because they would find Him wrapped in swaddling clothes and lying in a manger. Then a heavenly host was with the angel praising God and saying, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, goodwill toward men."

Isn't it sad that after all these centuries since our Lord was on earth, there should still be no peace? That man is still warring on man, and the whole world, so much larger than the one known in Jesus' time, should still be in a state of turmoil and suffering?

When the angels went away, the shepherds left their flocks and went to Bethlehem, where they found the Heavenly Babe, and knelt in worship. Then they told everyone they met about the wonders they had witnessed, and all wondered. The shepherds returned to their flocks, glorifying and "praising God for all the things they had heard and seen."

Kansas State Spilled; North Carolina Given Scare In New York

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It's beginning to look as if a place of honor in the national college basketball rankings is more a kiss of death than a pat on the back.

Continuing the trend of a week that began with San Francisco's first loss in two years, 10th-rated Kansas State was spilled Thursday night by Minnesota, two members of the Associated Press poll's second 10 were beaten, and even North Carolina, No. 3, had the scare of its life before finally struggling to its sixth straight victory.

The North Carolina Tar Heels, playing at Madison Square Garden, wound up a 64-59 winner over so-so New York University, but only after Bob Cunningham and reserve Joe Quibb had rushed to the rescue of the Carolina ace, Len Rosenbluth, who was held without a field goal for the first 30 minutes and wound up with only nine points.

Minnesota also sprung a couple of unsung players to hand K-State its first loss after four wins, 80-72. Buck Lindsey, with a five-point average, scored 21, and George Hanson added 13 to overbalance a 33-point show by State's Jack Parr.

Alabama, rated 17th, was handed a 73-50 shellacking by unranked Wake Forest, and La Salle, also unranked in the rankings, caused North Carolina State (19) its third loss, 83-76.

St. Bonaventure, regularly among the best in the East, lost its first in four 64-63 to Iona (N.Y.) on an over-the-head shot by Joe Bernardi with 10 seconds to play. Indiana, an easy winner over La Salle earlier in the week, was beaten by Villanova 79-69. Nebraska, which dumped strong Purdue from the unbeaten list a couple days ago, needed Don Smith's one-handed midcourt three with three seconds left to nip much-beaten Texas Tech 67-66.

There were, of course, a few signs of normalcy.

Texas Christian, back home after road losses to St. Louis and Wichita, burst into a 30-6 lead and with all regulars hitting double figures, walloped Abilene Christian 81-41.

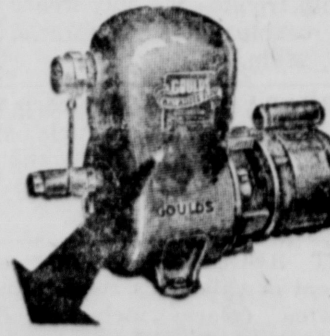

South Carolina, which carried North Carolina into overtime before losing last Saturday, defeated Georgia Tech 90-83 behind a 37-point job by Grady Wallace. Bradley, trailing 18-6 at one point, overcame Wisconsin 74-62, and Oklahoma City, tied for 15th in the AP ratings, got a school record of 43 points from Hubert Reed in a 91-74 decision over San Jose State.

Chicago Loyola made it six out of seven in an 89-72 romp over North Dakota, and two free throws by Junior Born with five seconds left enabled Tulsa to defeat Detroit, 75-74 in a Missouri Valley Conference game.

Circleville High school cage Tigers are slated to meet Greenfield tonight in a South Central Ohio League contest in the local gym. The reserve game will get underway at 7 p. m.

No-Windup Pitchers Seen On Increase

NEW YORK (AP)—Yogi Berra expects to see several pitchers following the lead of Don Larsen and Bob Turley, his New York Yankee teammates, by trying to pitch without a windup next season.

Berra was at Yankee Stadium Thursday with Whitey Ford, leading American League pitcher, to sign their 1957 contracts.

It was reported that Berra will be paid $58,000 and Ford about $35,000.

"A pitcher has got to be a big fellow to get away with that no windup," said Berra. "He's got to have good natural stuff like Larsen or Turley."

"And a sinker ball pitcher couldn't get by without his wind-up. I should think a fellow might hurt his arm that way. But they know more than I do about it." Weiss said Yankee contracts had not been sent out but would go into the mail between Christmas and New Year's.

Hy-Line 934-A

From the vast Hy-Line research program comes this new white-egg layer that even out-performs previous Hy-Line varieties
... in two ways.

Lays Even Better — Hy-Line 934-A produces 6 to 12 more eggs than any white-egg Hy-Line layer ever sold. Outlays even Hy-Line 934 that laid about 2½ dozen more eggs per bird per year than good leghorns. In addition, Hy-Line 934-A has the same stamina as the famed Hy-Line 934 which outlived leghorns by 7% to 10% over a year's lay.

Pays Even Better — Hy-Line 934-A puts more profit in your pocket. Increased feed efficiency, excellent livability, better production — all add up to greater profit total than ever.

THE NEWEST THING IN CHICKENS IS DEKALB CHIX

66 2-Minute Miles Chalked During 1956

COLUMBUS—A total of 66 two-minute miles—second highest single season mark in history—was registered by trotters and pacers during the 1956 season, the U. S. Trotting Association reported today.

The figure was up by five over last year and only four short of the all-time record set in 1953. The "two-minute list" is harness racing's most distinguished honor roll and this year's total was accounted for by 45 of the 14,622 horses that actually raced.

Numerical leader was the 4-year-old pacer Duane Hanover who connected six times with the fastest in 1:58. The son of Knight Dream is owned by Pine Acres Farm of Garden City, N. Y., and was handled by Billy Houghton. Only trotter to score more than once was Horse-of-the-Year Scott Frost who won in sub-2:00 time on three occasions.

The year's fastest horse was the 4-year-old pacer, mare Dottie's Pick, timed in 1:56.4 in a California time trial. Sharing honors as the fastest trotters were Prince Victor and Galophone, both clocked in 1:58.1.

Eleven trotters and 35 pacers made up the 1956 honor roll with the former contributing 13 of the miles and the pacers 53.

One of the most outstanding feats was that of the 2-year-old pacer Torpid who accounted for three 2:00 miles, including one in 1:58, a new world's record for that age. Torpid is the only 2-year-old ever to beat 2:00 on more than one occasion. Only seven 2-year-olds, two trotters and five pacers, have ever entered the list.

Ortega Slated To Test DeMarco

NEW YORK (AP)—If Gaspar Ortega repeats his upset victory over Tony DeMarco in tonight's televised rematch at Madison Square Garden, it will be time to take seriously the challenge of the lanky Mexican welterweight.

Ortega's split decision over the former champion in their Nov. 23 bout resulted in a revision of the 147-pound ratings. Both Ring and the National Boxing Assn. promptly awarded Ortega the No. 4 post among Carmen Basilio's challengers. DeMarco remained No. 1 with the NBA but slipped to second in the Ring.

Farmer Bank Credit Doubles In Last Decade, Agency Says

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland said today that bank credit in use by farmers has more than doubled in the last decade in the Fourth Federal Reserve District, while farm income has tended downward over most of that period.

A recent nationwide survey, the bank said, showed that about two of every five farmers have one or more loans at a bank. The total volume of outstanding farm loans at banks in the Fourth District amounts to more than 282 million dollars, it added. Price support loans secured by the Commodity Credit Corporation were not included in the survey.

The use of farm credit has grown with the advent of mechanization and other factors associated with "big business" in agriculture, the bank said. Nearly one-third of credit in use by farmers in mid-1956 was used for capital goods, other than farm land. Over one-third of the number of

Crowell-Collier Probe Planned

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Securities and Exchange Commission has ordered a public investigation of the sale of $4 million of securities by Crowell-Collier Publishing Co. in the last two years.

The New York Company is halting publication of Collier's Magazine and the Woman's Home Companion, with final issues reaching the newsstands this week.

The SEC's brief announcement said the investigation is to determine whether the company violated the Securities Act of 1933 and the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 by failing to comply with the registration and "full disclosure" provisions governing securities.

Sokolsky's These Days

It is more than likely that Great Britain will forsake many traditional concepts and will come closer to the European Union idea than it has ever been. In Asia, the danger lies in the possibility that Japan will be forced into the arms of Red China which the Japanese would prefer to an association with India which is worth little or nothing to them economically or culturally. Or, Japan, alternatively, could try to revive the principles of the Anglo-Japanese Alliance on an economic rather than a military scale.

What we are viewing now is a major shift of international relationships that usually occur during a war or immediately preceding a war. Rarely are such changes witnessed during a period of peace. It is undoubtedly true that the new alignment would have occurred had there been no Suez situation, but Suez did aggravate antagonisms between the United States and her Allies which have been developing since Korea and the Anglo-French-Israeli sortie into Egypt brought matters to a head. American support of Nasser appears to a European something not unlike Neville Chamberlain's umbrella at Munich, whatever it may look like to an American.

Famous Painter To Get Freedom

SANTA FE, N. M. (AP)—Ralph Dubose Pekor, the life term convict famed for his painting of a smiling Christ, has been given a conditional release from prison because he is dying from cancer.

Gov. John F. Simms signed the documents Thursday and the parole board said it had been assured that Pekor's living and medical expenses will be met.

Pekor must be given sedatives every three hours. Because of this, the board and the governor felt Pekor could better be taken care of by private facilities outside the penitentiary.

"Unto Us A Child Is Born" For God So Loved World

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth in a series of studies of the birth and times of Christ. It deals with the Holy Family—and the growing up of the boy Jesus.

By George Cornell
AP Newsfeatures

A child is an enigma. He is a private place, like a never-travelled road whose course ahead is unknown.

Into the household of Mary and Joseph came such a charge—a robust, little Son—to open the sealed pages of life.

Its beginning was marked by striking omens.

But Mary and Joseph were unassuming country folk, and in that manner, they reared the Boy, giving a plain, small-town upbringing to the Youngster who later would be called:

“THE LIGHT of the world . . . the Bread of Life . . . The Alpha and the Omega. . . The Beginning and the End. . . That Which is and was, Which was and is to Come.”

He did not even have a select—or even safe—introduction to this earthly existence. He first drew breath in a crib of hay. Herod wanted Him killed. But He had the staunch, undaunted care of Mary and Joseph.

They nurtured Him in affection, courage against danger, discipline and hard manual work.

It was an amazing thing at His birth when the shepherds came with their breath-taking account of a heavenly celebration. Almost overwhelming, Mary didn't speak of it afterward, but pondered it in her heart.

Certainly, it didn't ease their responsibilities.

They lacked means to give the Child any social advantages. Joseph was a worker with wood. And laboring men earned only about a drachma (20 cents) a day. But they gave full devotion to the Lad of Whom it would be said:

“In Him are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge.”

HE GREW UP in a tiny village, Nazareth, with its dirt streets and mud-brick houses, where ox-drawn carts lumbered into town with melons and lentils, where herds of goats grazed on the hillsides.

The circumcision of the Child at eight days old denoted, in Jewish law, the putting off of fleshly sin. He shared the ordinary obeisance of others.

“He . . . Who did no sin. . . made Himself of no reputation and took upon Him the form of a servant . . . He humbled himself and became obedient unto death. . .”

There were simple joys, and good air and soil in the Child's home village. Youngsters played in the fields of fox-eat wheat and romped in the orchards, while their mothers shook down olives with wands.

When they took the Boy to Jerusalem to dedicate Him to the Lord at 40 days old, they had only the sacrifice of the poor to give, and Joseph paid the five-shekel temple tax for a first-born—$3.60 to redeem Him Who would be called:

“The Lord of Glory. . . the only Begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth. . . In Whom also we have obtained an inheritance. . .”

BUT THERE remained the workaday duties of providing for Him, the hours at the loom and millstone, the leeks, mustard, citrons and pears to gather and preserve, the water to be carried from the one well in Nazareth.

The family settled in this sleepy town to stay when the Child was about 1. He had been several months old when the Eastern wise men came with their gifts and homage to Bethlehem. Afterward, came the brief stay in Egypt to avoid the knives of Herod's soldiers. Now, Herod was dead.

The Child grew and waxed strong. He was a perceptive Boy. His keen interests sometimes puzzling Mary and Joseph, but He was likable, and found favor with people, long before it was said that through this Boy:

“God . . . made known unto us the mystery of His will.”

The Boy was nourished in scripture. The young of all devout families were taken regularly to the synagogue for “hearing of the law.” They memorized the words, studied with them inscribed on leather bands about their head and arms.

The Boy also learned carpentry, like Joseph. It was a trade of sweat and calluses, of the shearing rhythm of the adz, the fine eye of measuring line and rod, the stroke of saw and bickhammer, the cut of wedge and chisel.

THERE WAS abundant fishing in the lake of Galilee, an hour's walk away, and the Boy was free to grow in the clear outdoors, to stroll the vineyards and groves of cedar, to learn to make a burro's pack, this Lad of Whom it would be said:

“He was in the world and the world was made by Him . . . In Him dwelleth all the fullness of the Godhead bodily. . .”

Not until He was 12 did He accompany His family on the yearly trip to Jerusalem for the Passover feast, and there He saw the great temple. More than 5,000 priests served it in bi-monthly rotation.

There, in the city, was the turmoil of cluttered cultures, the traffic in slaves, with their felt caps and aprons, the Roman soldiers in laced boots, the beggars and outcast sick, the chariot races, the pipers to snakes, the shaven men and ornamented togas.

"Unto Us A Child Is Born For God So Loved World"

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth in a series of studies of the birth and times of Christ. It deals with the Holy Family—and the growing up of the boy Jesus.

By George Cornell
AP Newsfeatures

A child is an enigma. He is a private place, like a never-travelled road whose course ahead is unknown.

Into the household of Mary and Joseph came such a charge—a robust, little Son—to open the sealed pages of life.

Its beginning was marked by striking omens.

But Mary and Joseph were unassuming country folk, and in that manner, they reared the Boy, giving a plain, small-town upbringing to the Youngster who later would be called:

"THE LIGHT of the world... the Bread of Life... The Alpha and the Omega... The Beginning and the End... That Which is and was, Which was and is to Come."

He did not even have a select—or even safe—introduction to this earthly existence. He first drew breath in a crib of hay. Herod wanted Him killed. But He had the staunch, undaunted care of Mary and Joseph.

They nurtured Him in affection, courage against danger, discipline and hard manual work.

It was an amazing thing at His birth when the shepherds came with their breath-taking account of a heavenly celebration. Almost overwhelming, Mary didn't speak of it afterward, but pondered it in her heart.

Certainly, it didn't ease their responsibilities.

They lacked means to give the Child any social advantages. Joseph was a worker with wood. And laboring men earned only about a drachma (20 cents) a day. But they gave full devotion to the Lad of Whom it would be said:

"In Him are hid all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge."

HE GREW UP in a tiny village, Nazareth, with its dirt streets and mud-brick houses, where ox-drawn carts lumbered into town with melons and lentils, where herds of goats grazed on the hillsides.

The circumcision of the Child at eight days old denoted, in Jewish law, the putting off of fleshly sin. He shared the ordinary obeisance of others.

"He... Who did no sin... made Himself of no reputation and took upon Him the form of a servant... He humbled himself and became obedient unto death..."

There were simple joys, and good air and soil in the Child's home village. Youngsters played in the fields of fox-eat wheat and romped in the orchards, while their mothers shook down olives with wands.

When they took the Boy to Jerusalem to dedicate Him to the Lord at 40 days old, they had only the sacrifice of the poor to give, and Joseph paid the five-shekel temple tax for a first-born—$3.60 to redeem Him Who would be called:

"The Lord of Glory... the only Begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth... In Whom also we have obtained an inheritance..."

BUT THERE remained the workaday duties of providing for Him, the hours at the loom and millstone, the leeks, mustard, citrons and pears to gather and preserve, the water to be carried from the one well in Nazareth.
